Accommodations

This month’s newsletter focuses on student usability, accessibility and accommodations for the upcoming Smarter Balanced Assessments.

The Smarter Balanced Assessment Consortium’s Usability, Accessibility, and Accommodations Guidelines are intended for school-level personnel and decision-making teams, particularly Individualized Education Program (IEP) teams, as they prepare for and implement the Smarter Balanced assessment. The Guidelines provide information for classroom teachers, English development educators, special education teachers, and related services personnel to use in selecting and administering universal tools, designated supports, and accommodations for those students who need them. The Guidelines are also intended for assessment staff and administrators who oversee the decisions that are made in instruction and assessment.

The Conceptual Model (Figure 1) recognizes that all students should be held to the same expectations for instruction in CCSS and have available to them universal accessibility features. It also recognizes that some students may have certain characteristics and access needs that require the use of accommodations for instruction and when they participate in the Smarter Balanced Assessments.

These Guidelines portray several aspects of the Smarter Balanced assessment features – universal tools (available for all students), designated supports (available when indicated by an adult or team), and accommodations (available need is documented in an Individualized Education Program – IEP or 504 plan).

Universal tools are available to all students, including those receiving designated supports and those receiving accommodations. Designated supports are available only to students for whom an adult or team has indicated the need for these accommodations (as well as those students for whom the need is documented). Accommodations are available only to those students with documentation of the need through a formal plan (i.e., IEP). Those students also may use designated supports and universal tools.

It is critical that all staff have a complete understanding on the accommodations available to all students who will be taking the spring SBAC Assessments. Complete information, including answers to the questions below can be found by accessing the Usability, Accessibility, and Accommodations Guidelines.
